

SAINT BRIGID of KILDARE

Feast Day: February 1

Brigid was a person of great faith in God and love for others. Even as a child in Ireland, she tried to help people who were poor and sick. She shared what she had with others.

When she grew up, Brigid traveled all over Ireland setting up schools and hospitals for people in need. She helped people who lived in poverty in any way she could. She once said, "What is mine is theirs." Brigid lived by these words and was always generous to others.

Brigid died in 523 and her example of love lives on. The things she did in her life show us how we can be caring and compassionate.
