

SAINT MARGARET OF SCOTLAND

Feast Day: November 16

As a young woman, Margaret married the King of Scotland and became the queen in 1070. She lived in a castle. Margaret taught her children to love God and care about others.

Queen Margaret could have lived an easy life like other kings and queens, but she was a person of compassion. She saw the many needs of the people and did what she could to help.

Queen Margaret gave food to children without families and started hospitals. She helped people who lived on the streets when they came to the castle gates. Her example reminds us that we are called to help all people in need.
